DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 1-2, 4-13, 31-39, 43, and 60-70 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Connelly et al. (6,589,229). Connelly discloses a device for delivering liquid via a flow channel comprising a reusable component (34) and a disposable component (32) adapted to mate with the reusable component wherein the disposable component includes a flow channel (55), the reusable component includes a controller (132) adapted to read empirical stored values from a memory device (column 4, lines 10-11) while the disposable component is mated to the reusable component and generate a flow control signal based on the one or more empirical stored values, and a valve (36,38) responsive to the flow control signal adapted to control flow of the liquid through the flow channel.

Connelly does not teach to include the memory device on the disposable component.

Paulsen discloses an infuser for infusing a liquid from a reservoir comprising a reusable part (1,2,3) and a disposable part (4) comprising a memory device (36) adapted to be read by the controlling unit of the reusable part. The memory on the disposable part provides the user with the ability to interchange different disposable parts with the reusable part.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify the device of Connelly with the modifications of Paulsen to create an infusion system adapted to be used with multiple disposable parts.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-2, 4-13, 31-39, 43, and 60-70 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within

Art Unit: 3763

TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
